The KNITTED GASKET is part of the aircraft underwing door panel installation and is essentially a seal for the inspection hole covers. The inspection hole covers are located on the bottom skin panels of the wing and allow maintenance personnel access to the wing structure.

The KNITTED GASKET is made of a knitted aluminum wire mesh with a fluorocarbon rubber edge seal. It features a hole pattern along the mesh that is reinforced with grommets made of the same aluminum wire mesh. The KNITTED GASKET is impregnated with general purpose airframe grease to protect the part from degradation. The part measures approximately 470 X 246 mm.
